

Sighs (1998)

“What do we have here? A couple of signs?”

“Well, the three aliens...the spacemen we’ve encountered...seem to be able to speak English, but can’t write it...the only thing they can put down in writing are squares of the colors you see below.”

“What do the spacemen say the squares mean?”

“They keep telling us the strip on the left is a coded message.”

“A coded message?”

“That’s the exact wording they used. ‘A coded message’, over and over.”

“And the strip on the right?”

“They won’t say...but I get the impression that it will defy our expectations, and provide an even greater understanding into other mysteries.”

“Is it a coded message too?”

“They only said that both are coded messages, but only the one on the left is a coded message.”

“How confusing.”
